Three College Men Nominated For President

Fred Davidson, Durwood Maxted
Candidates for Student Body
Vice-President

SENATE CANDIDATES NAMED

Eugene Hill, editor of the 1938 "Tower," and Richard ShROUT, president of the junior class, both of Calhoun, and Bill Bernau, Earlham, Ia., co-captain of the 1939 football team, were nominated for the office of president of the Student Government Association at the Convention held Monday morning in the College auditorium.

Nominees for vice-president are Fred E. Davidson, Barnard, business manager of the 1938 "Tower," and Durwood Maxted, Tabor, Iowa, pep-captain of the Barkatze.

An eight-piece band, followed by a consort bearing bright-colored placards and signs, marched through the auditorium following the nominations of Hill and Davidson. The band played several selections in front of the auditorium following the convention.

Individual class meetings for the freshmen, sophomores and juniors were called after the convention by John Zuchowski, St. Joseph, president of the student body who presided at the convention. The class meetings were held for the purpose of nominating student senators for next year.

Nominations in the junior class were as follows: first 3-term office, Mary Turner, Pattonsburg and Bill (Continued on page 4)

College Chorus to Present 'Redemption' In Easter Concert

Well-Known Oratorio by Gounod to Be Given in Regular College Assembly Thursday

At the regular assembly Thursday, April 14 at 11 o'clock, the College chorus, under the direction of Mr. Hermann N. Schuster, will present the well known oratorio, "Redemption," by Gounod. The chorus will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Marian Kerr.

The following will be featured as soloists:

Misses Helen Shipman, Belle Ward, Mary Lu Rusk, soprano; Mr. Merrill Ostrus, tenor; Rev. Sherman Moore, baritone.

Part I of the oratorio, "The Resurrection and the Ascension," will be followed by Scripture and prayer by Pres. Uel W. Lamkin. Part II is "The Pentecost."

STORY IS PUBLISHED

Miss Flossie Winemiller, Sheridan, has a story appearing in the April issue of "Children's Activities." This magazine is the official publication of the Child Training Association Inc. of Chicago, and its columns are limited to material of an educational and professional nature.

Miss Winemiller has written other stories and entertainment material. This story, "How Baby Cotton Tail Got His Name," is the first she has ever submitted to a publisher.

A teacher in the primary grades at Sheridan, Miss Winemiller received the 60-hour life certificate from the College several years ago.

Check Last Week-End on Entries Shows Athletic Events Are Smallest Group

DEADLINE IS TOMORROW P.M.

A check last week-end in the office of Mr. H. R. Dieterich, manager of the annual High School Contests to be held at the College April 21-23, revealed that entries are coming in in great numbers for the various events. The dead-line for entries is tomorrow afternoon.

Athletic events were the slowest to come in up until last week-end, the check revealed. Only five schools had sent entries for the athletic contests last Saturday.

Other events received last week-end were in music and scholastic events.

Following are the athletic entries as filed the first of this week:

Elmo high school: Running high jump, Robert Jennings; shot put, Wendell Calfee, Raymond Bilby and Andrew Vansickle; pole vault, Yale Snodderley and Darrell VanFosson; running broad jump, Yale Snodderley; 100-yard dash, Junior McClaren, Elvin Lamb and Yale Snodderley.

880-yard run, Raymond Bilby; 220-yard dash, Yale Snodderley, Junior McClaren and Elvin Lamb; mile run, Raymond Bilby and Cecil Bowman; half-mile relay, Raymond Bilby, Darrell Hutchinson, Wendell Calfee, Elvin Lamb, Yale Snodderley and Junior McClaren; medley relay, Raymond Bilby, Yale Snodderley, Wendell Calfee, Elvin Lamb, Darrell Hutchinson, Junior McClaren.

Students Should Invite Mothers to Mothers Day May 6

Committee Met Monday To Make Arrangements For One-Day Affair

Students of the College are asked to invite their mothers to attend the annual Mothers' Day, which will be held here on Friday, May 6, according to Dr. O. Myking Mehus, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The faculty-student committee for Mothers' Day met last Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock to work out a program for the one-day event.

For dinner the mothers will be the guests of their sons and daughters at their rooming houses, at the dormitory, at fraternities and various eating places. In the evening, they will be guests of the College at a music program presented in the College auditorium.

The following committee was selected for Mothers' Day: Assembly, Miss Minnie B. James, Miss Katherine Helwig, Turner Tyson and Iola Argo; luncheon, Miss Hettie M. Anthony, Dorothy Dalbey, Arlene Birdsell and Fred Davidson; tea, Dr. Margaret Ruth Smith and the College social committee; and registration, Leslie G. Somerville, Dr. W. G. Shover, Sterling Surry and all students on the general arrangements committee.

Mothers will meet at nine o'clock in Recreation Hall where they will register. They will be free then until 11 o'clock to visit classes, visit with instructors, or look over the campus and buildings.

An assembly program will be given at 11 o'clock, which will consist of an address of welcome by a College student, an address by a faculty member, and special music by the College conservatory of music.

At noon a luncheon will be served at Residence Hall. In the afternoon, also at Residence Hall, a tea will be held for the mothers from 3 to 5 o'clock.

The student general arrangement committee is composed of the following: Thomas Boyd and Turner Tyson, Sigma Mu Delta; Dorothy Dalbey, Kappa Omicron Phi; Arlene Birdsell, Y. W. C. A.; Edwareda Harrison and Elizabeth Wilson, Sigma Sigma Sigma; Dick Dempsey and M. Carlton Wilson, Sigma Tau Gamma; Iola Argo and Nyda Snyder, Alpha Sigma Alpha; Fred Davidson, Tower, and Virgil Elliott, Y. M. C. A.

Dr. J. W. Jones To Be Dean of College Faculty

Dean of Instruction At Indiana State Teachers College To Head Teachers Here

TO TAKE OFFICE JUNE FIRST

Dr. J. W. Jones, for the past five years dean of instruction at the Indiana State Teachers College in Terre Haute, Ind., will assume the duties of dean of the College faculty here June 1, it was announced this week by President Uel W. Lamkin.

The office of dean of the faculty at the college here has been vacant since the resignation March 1 of Dr. J. C. Miller, who has assumed the presidency of Christian College in Columbia, Mo.

A graduate of the Drummer Township High School in Gibson City, Ill., in the class of 1912, Dr. Jones attended the Illinois State Normal School at Normal, Ill., in the summer terms of 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1916. He received the Bachelor of Arts, the Master of Arts and the Ph. D. degrees from the University of Indiana in the years 1925, 1926 and 1929, respectively.

Dr. Jones taught one year in the rural school at Proctor, Ill., and two years in the junior high school at Forrest, Ill. He was principal of the Strawn, Ill., Consolidated schools in 1918-19, and superintendent of the Melvin, Ill., public schools and principal of the Melvin Community High School during the years 1921 and 1924. He was a tutor in education for three years at the University of Indiana.

THE EASTER SEASON

Too often we associate the Easter season with new clothes, the rabbit and hard-boiled eggs. To the Christian nations, it should mean far more. Easter to them should be a time of meditation and reverence.

Even for those who are indifferent toward religion can get inspiration from the story of the resurrection. It is the story of a perfectly unselfish personality who died voluntarily that others might benefit. Today we are seeking ways and means to preserve our democracy. This will involve something of the unselfishness and sacrifice that Jesus portrayed because democracy is grounded on the idea of social cooperation.

We may do well to stop and consider our own meagerness and dedicate ourselves anew to resurrection into something better.

PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Last week this newspaper carried a story about the "job-finding" committee and its work which has already begun and which will swing into full tempo in the next few months. That committee is, of course, the College committee on recommendations. Teachers, both experienced and graduates of the College, are thinking at this time of positions for next year, and already seniors here are becoming excited as to just what prospects will be in store for them.

According to an article in the latest edition of "School and Community" magazine for March, we are fortunate that the practice of wholesale dismissal of teachers is less prevalent than it was a few years ago. Boards of directors in general, the article points out, seem to be learning that a good teacher is more valuable in the position in which he has worked for a year or more than another equally good teacher would be in the same position. Then, too, perhaps board members are becoming more conscious of their own obligations to teachers as human beings who enjoy a sense of security and who are encouraged by indications from the public that their work is being appreciated.

But what of a teacher's sense of responsibility toward his fellow teachers? Is it true that a sense of our own interests sometimes becomes so strong that it all but annihilates our interest in others? Are there teachers so void of social and group welfare that they cannot learn the essence of the tenth section of their Code of Ethics, which is:

"We believe that a teacher should take no step toward a specific position until the place has been declared officially, legally and conclusively vacant."

Where this credo is lived up to, much uneasiness is spared the incumbent, and the teacher who might otherwise be actively covetous of a fellow teacher's job is spared the deteriorating influence of violating his sense of right. Thus all come to respect the profession they have chosen, and consequently come to appreciate more the character of those who compose it.

There have been times when one teacher would underbid a rival in order to secure a position. That procedure is as unethical and unprofessional as trying to crowd out a person who already has a position. To practice either is enough to make the offender unworthy of the profession and inwardly unfit to teach the youth of America, where a deep democratic sense of the rights of others and the welfare of all are considerations which are fundamental.

It is urgent that teachers, especially at this time of the year, live up to the Code of Ethics.

JOHN MUIR CENTENNIAL

Next Thursday, April 21, the nation will celebrate the one-hundredth birthday of John Muir, America's great apostle of conservation who saw and extolled the beauty of nature unfolding month by month. A naturalist, poet and teacher, John Muir was also an exponent and exemplar of the art of living, as shown in his self-confessed mission: "To entice people to look at nature's loveliness."

In all that John Muir has written, and in accounts of him written by others, runs the strong, red-blooded current of his love of adventurous exploration and his physical hardihood and powers of endurance. As a mountain climber he had no peer. At seasons and in weather which turned back the hardest, he joyfully went forth to glory in the magnificent fury of the elements, thrilling to their might, feeling himself a part of the great symphony.

John Muir was one of the greatest advocates of conservation of all time, and in this day and age, when we see need of conservation on every hand, we can realize somewhat the magnitude of his mission and the good it must have accomplished. To his inspiration and devotion the United States owes the salvaging of wilderness beauty and magnificent forests doomed otherwise to the wantonness, waste-fulness, and commercial greed of the white race's lust for exploitation. Thousands of acres in our national parks, national monuments, and national forests are today preserved because of John Muir's ceaseless efforts to stay the hand of destruction before it was too late. By pen and voice he preached the necessity of conservation and painted the lurid picture of a future shorn not only of beauty, but of the very means of sustenance, unless the natural resources were wisely used.

WHY FEEL INFERIOR?

When asked to make a criticism of our College last winter, "Dad" Elliott made this statement. He said, "It seems that about two-thirds of the student body here are enveloped in an inferior complex."

Regardless of the statistics, the fact remains that many college students whether here or elsewhere have not adjusted themselves to their environment. Now is the time to make those adjustments. What you are to be you are fast becoming. Now is the time to decide whether you are to be a poised, self-controlled, confident, effective personality or a weak, unhappy, ineffective one.

People who feel inferior are usually jealous of the seemingly well adjusted person. However, underneath he may feel his unworth just as keenly but he has learned that to show it is to admit it and therefore carries on until such a time when he shall better understand himself.

A few years ago a person could expect little help in the matter of personality development but according to more recent studies it has been discovered that even adults can completely change their inner being through proper training and guidance.

Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam says the answer rests in the number of masteries a man can claim. He also groups all of life's masteries under seven heads as follows:

1. The mastery of good health.
2. The mastery of a good speaking voice.
3. The mastery of a good vocabulary.
4. Get-along-ability with other people.
5. Ability to think straight.
6. The mastery of a great cause.
7. The mastery of unambition.

There you are. What are you going to do about it?

relics possessed by the convent. These relics are objects connected with the Lord or with a saint. A relic may be a whole or part of a saint's body or something a saint has touched.

There are very few collections such as that possessed by the Convent. One relic which impressed the College group was the complete relic of the body of the little martyr St. Beatrice. One of the sisters explained to the students that it had been obtained with great difficulty by one of the Fathers of Conception Abbey when he was studying in Rome, Italy, and that it was received at the Convent in 1911.

See Hand-Carved Statues

In the Perpetual Adoration Chapel the students were impressed by the mosaics which, according to one of the sisters, are the most valuable decorations in this Chapel. Here the students were also impressed by the Exposition Altar, the genuine stained glass windows which present the apostles each displaying the instrument of his martyrdom, and the hand-carved and richly decorated statues. The eight carved columns in the Adoration are of dark green pearl granite which was imported from Aberdeen, Scotland.

Visit in Conception

The group next went to Conception where they were taken on a tour of the high school, the Conception Abbey church, and the College buildings.

In the high school the students saw the chapel and the altar which were built and assembled entirely by the boys of the school.

In the college the group was shown through the museum room where they saw many Indian relics and collections from the Holy Land and other foreign countries.

World-Famous Organ

In the Conception Abbey Church one of the priests who has studied music in Europe played especially for the College group on the organ which, due to its 1,825 pipes, has a deep and magnificent tone. This organ is one of the most famous in the world.

The oil paintings on the ceilings and walls of the Church were painted fifty years ago by two of the priests. In spite of their age these paintings are still very clear and impressive.

Dr. J. W. Jones New Dean of Faculty

During the summer terms of 1927-30, Dr. Jones served as secretary to Dr. H. L. Smith, director of the summer session at Indiana University. He was director of research and associate professor of education at the Indiana State Teachers College, Terre Haute, for three years.

Between the months of March and October, in 1931, Dr. Jones was acting dean of the faculty and professor of education at the Terre Haute college. He was made dean of the faculty at that institution in 1931 and served in that capacity until 1933.

He was appointed dean of instruction at the Indiana State Teachers College in 1933, and will serve in that office until he comes to the college here.

Between the years 1927-1936, Dr. Jones was an executive officer of the graduate school, Indiana State Teachers College, in Terre Haute. He was editor of the state-wide edition of the "Normal Advance," a publication of the teachers college, between the years 1927-29.

Between the years 1929-1938, he edited "The Teachers College Journal" at the Indiana college. During the World War, Dr. Jones served in the United States navy, commissioned ensign (D) U. S. N. R. 1917-1918. He is a member of the National Education Association, Phi Delta Kappa, Indiana Schoolmen's Club, and the Indiana State Teachers Association.

In 1929, Dr. Jones became a member of the Indiana Commission for a survey of the problem of state aid for public schools authorized by the Indiana general assembly. He was appointed a member of the Indiana state high school testing committee in 1930.

Dr. Jones has been a member of committees to prepare the following courses of study of the State of Indiana and director of the work on them: tentative course of study in economic-commercial geography for the secondary schools of Indiana (1928); tentative course of study in United States history and social studies for secondary schools of Indiana (1928); tentative course of study in general history for secondary schools in Indiana (1929); tentative courses of study in natural science, biology, physics and chemistry for Indiana high schools (1933).

The outstanding educator is present president of the Valley area of the Boy Scouts of America, a position he received in 1936. He served as president of the Terre Haute Rotary Club during the years 1937-38.
